Men 89%      Women 11%

Distributed syringes
Recovered syringes

The evolution in the number of distributed and recovered syringes has been significant for the past eight years. As regards distribution, it seems to be increasing again after two years of decrease.

Recovery has fallen: in 2004 only 41% of syringes were recovered whereas in 1999, for example, there was an 89% rate.

172 people had an HIV test, 166 an HBV test and 159 had an HCV test.

The people who did not have a test refuse to go to a CDAG [Free & Anonymous Testing Centre]
